Bring Sean Home Foundation Charity Golf Outing

Dear Friend,

The Bring Sean Home Foundation (BSHF) is very excited to be hosting its first official charity golf outing to raise funds to support our mission and the launch of a new grant program to provide financial assistance to left-behind parents, who—like David Goldman—struggle to be reunited with their abducted children.

Events like this help BSHF fulfill its mission and assist victims of international parental child abduction. To date, our efforts have focused on providing private counseling and support to left-behind parents and their family members and educating the public on the issue of international child abduction. In addition to the new grant program, we are also working to establish a new legal advisory committee and expand our volunteer staff.

We hope you will consider becoming a sponsor of our first charity outing at the award-winning Pine Barrens Golf Club. Please review the sponsorship opportunities and consider participating at a level that works for you and/or your company. Besides helping victim families, your sponsorship will place you on the growing list of champions who believe deeply in BSHF's important mission.

Join us for this year's golf outing and support our vital efforts to bring abducted children home!

Pine Barrens Golf Club

Pine Barrens Golf Club is spectacular—a world-class golf destination within the protected acreage of the New Jersey Pine Barrens. Expansive, undulating, bent grass greens are tailored to test the skills and abilities of even the most experienced golfer. From the moment that the first ball is struck until the last putt drops, Pine Barrens Golf Club provides a golfing experience which is simultaneously challenging and unfailingly exhilarating.

Bring Sean Home Foundation Campaigning for the return of internationally abducted children

The Bring Sean Home Foundation was founded in March 2009 with the goal of providing resources and support to victims of international child abduction. The Bring Sean Home movement formed originally as a grassroots, international campaign to return Sean Goldman to his father, David Goldman, who fought an inspiring 5-year battle to be reunited with his son. Sean was abducted to Brazil in June 2004 and returned to the U.S. on Christmas Eve, 2009. Inspired and motivated by the success of the Goldman case, Bring Sean Home Foundation's founders felt a calling to assist other parents in similar situations.

Bring Sean Home Foundation's mission is to assist victims of international child abduction, educate the public about the issue, prevent future abductions, and draw attention to the increasing number of cases that currently exist with the purpose of returning abducted children to their home countries and reuniting them with their left-behind families.

Did you know?

In the last four years alone, more than 6,000 children have been abducted outside the U.S. by a parent or legal guardian.
